

Electronic Verification of Immigration Status on HealthCare.gov

Can consumers who have eligible immigration status verify their status using only an alien number or I-94 number on HealthCare.gov?

Yes. Consumers who have an eligible immigration status can verify their status using only an alien number or an I-94 number, instead of providing multiple document numbers. To do so, the consumer should select “Other documents or status types” from the document-type drop-down list in the immigration status section of the application on HealthCare.gov. Then, the consumer should check the “Other” box. A field will appear asking the consumer to provide a description of the type of document they have that supports their status and to select whether they have an alien number or an I-94 number. The consumer should then enter this number into the document number field that will appear. Please note that if a consumer has immediate access to all of the document numbers that are listed on HealthCare.gov for their document type (for example, alien number and card number), we recommend that they select that specific document in the drop-down list and enter both numbers.
